

A group of five young people (three women and two men) are jumping joyfully on a beach. They are holding hands and have their arms raised in the air. They are wearing casual summer clothing like tank tops, shorts, and dresses. The background shows the ocean and a bright sky.

40 really ain't so bad
You know my words are true
Because I reached that ripe old age
Much earlier than you

You may begin to see some gray
Your legs may show their veins
But one thing that I know for sure
With age come bigger brains!!

You're smarter now, you're wiser now
You'll offer sage advice
And Lisa, I think all agree
That you're just gosh-darn nice!

Countless times you've helped me out
I've always got a question
Though you've been patient, I must say
Your work is your obsession

Perhaps in time a fraction
Of the knowledge that you carry
Will work its way across the room
To me from you and Sherri

Rockwell is a dandy place
I think my job is nifty
I hope you plan to stick around
At least until you're fifty!
